Ask

Objective to 'Ask, Prepare, Process, Analyze, Share, and Act' on the FitBit Fitness Tracker data.

Key business task:

A. What are some trends in smart device usage? B. How could these trends apply to Bellabeat customers? C. How could these trends help influence Bellabeat marketing strategy? You will produce a report with the following deliverables: 1. A clear summary of the business task 2. A description of all data sources used 3. Documentation of any cleaning or manipulation of data 4. A summary of your analysis 5. Supporting visualizations and key findings 6. Your top high-level content recommendations based on your analysis

Key Stakeholders Urška Sršen: Bellabeat's cofounder and Chief Creative Officer Sando Mur: Mathematician and Bellabeat's cofounder; key member of the Bellabeat executive team Bellabeat marketing analytics team Customers with membership Customers Potential Customers, e.g., users of other brand smart device products, people interested in improving their health and well being by using smart devices, people interested in looking cool and sporty, people interested in quantifying their habits into data.

Checking for number of sleeprecords including non realistic occurrences.

nrow(subset(sleepDay_merged, TotalSleepRecords %in% "1"))
[1] 367
nrow(subset(sleepDay_merged, TotalSleepRecords %in% "2"))

[1] 0

There exist certain sleep records with more than 1 record per day which justifies the table however most don't vary across the range of calculations.

Analyze

Do not remove duplicates as many of the values is repeated in the rows i.e. Id.

Analysis to find the mean of the TotalMinutesAsleep column and the max TotalMinutesAsleep in days

mean_r_length <- as.numeric(mean(sleepDay_merged$TotalMinutesAsleep))
cat("The average asleep time is:",mean_r_length,"minutes. ")
The average asleep time is: 419.4673 minutes.
max_r_length <- as.numeric(max(sleepDay_merged$TotalMinutesAsleep)) cat("The longest asleep time was:",max_r_length,"minutes")
The longest asleep time was: 796 minutes

Comparing stats to the previous analysis and summarizing in a tibble.

```
sleepDay_merged %>% group_by(Id) %>% summarise(Total_sleep = TotalMinutesAsleep, mean_length = round (mean(TotalMinutesAsleep), 2), median_length = median(TotalMinutesAsleep), max_Tot alMinutesAsleep = max(TotalMinutesAsleep), min_TotalMinutesAsleep = min(TotalMinut esAsleep))

The Tibble reveals an Id with a singular record approximately 1 hour of sleep which is not necessarily a miss recording, however probably just a single user that gave up on the endeavors and tracking. They should accordingly be removed for motivational purposes as well as the necessity of multiple records to make general conclusions, arguably.

Sleepday takeaway

All things being relative/equal, the sleep data reveals a fairly consistent sleeping pattern with the sample IDs. (some were selected for peer review and the sake of data analysis) whereas the tendency in the general population arguably remains the same, the argument for new comers of the app suggest, that its important to get the needed rest for sake of restitution etc., running wise.

Recommendations #### Social network Marketing strategy directed at social network and peer comparison for use. That is, the individual users are embedded in online based groups for instance that are chosen from similar physical performance, to achieve relevant comparison.

Performance based Performance based endorsements from metrics based on individual training schemes that are continuously evaluated. These points of critiques and (praises mostly) to the individual user based on their effort are meant as incentives to continue workout and engage in the training community. #### Healthy behavior (and happy customers) could be encouraged by looking at the relation between sleep, resting in and being in bed compared to performance which easily could be monitored in a target group.

Appendix 1 Since muscle weight is not accounted for and arguably has a large impact on the body mass index such measurement could be an extra future addition to the user accounts.

Appendix 2 There are multiple venues or aims for further for investigation. One proposal would be to compare average heartrate during exercise contra BMIs in order to make Performance related record tracking and advisory based on occurrences. It could perhaps push the user on towards accomplishing new goals. Another suggestion would be to request for more detailed time of when the exercise takes place and the accompanying heart rate. The hypothesis is accordingly that heart beat registry shows which time of day suits the individual user i.e. when do one train most efficiently. Other steps include to analyze the training cycle of eating, restitution etc. to point out when one can peak perform. Together with which forms of exercise that are most rewarding by measuring when the pulse exceeds a certain amount compared to the index on resting pulse for instance. The charts show that Id 2022484408 has a tendency for higher occurrence or clustering of 'below average pulse' while the peak is more dispersed towards the max. It could be used for pushing against maintaining a steady climb towards and above average pulse when doing fat burning and the opposite when doing cardio, preferably. The outcome should be tested of course as to which form increase fat burning and improving the resting pulse.

Appendix 3 A brief description reveals a smooth correlation between burning calories and moving steps.

Disclaimer: It's arguably prudent to remember that one might project oneself onto the subject i.e. that is ones feelings, emotions and thoughts of the past experience of workout. These aspects become relevant when giving recommendations for future use on consumer preferences, for instance.

Takeaway despite of certain limitation towards the number of recordings and an apparent outlier (upper right corner, heavy user). The diagram indicates a relation between weight and BMI whereas muscle mass however is not directly accounted for.

The charts show that

Id 2022484408 has an tendency for higher occurence or clustering of 'below average pulse' while the peak is more dispersed towards the max.

The graphs could also show a clear trend towards a steep incline or rise in pulse when exercising and a slow decline or settling down to normal. A less extensive data set is needed.

There are multiple venues or aims for further for investigation. One proposal would be to compare average heartrate during exercise contra BMIs in order to make Performance related record tracking and advisory based on occurrences. It could perhaps push the user on towards accomplishing new goals. Another suggestion would be to request for more detailed time of when the exercise takes place and the accompanying heart rate. The hypothesis is accordingly that heart beat registry shows which time of day suits the individual user i.e. when do one train most efficiently. Other steps include to analyze the training cycle of eating, restitution etc. to point out when one can peak perform. Together with which forms of exercise that are most rewarding by measuring when the pulse exceeds a certain amount compared to the index on resting pulse for instance. The charts show that Id 2022484408 has a tendency for higher occurrence or clustering of 'below average pulse' while the peak is more dispersed towards the max. It could be used for pushing against maintaining a steady climb towards and above average pulse when doing fat burning and the opposite when doing cardio, prefereably. The outcome should be tested ofcourse as to which form increase fatburning and improving the resting pulse.

Calories ift. ActivityDay

StepTotal ift. ActivityDay

Two datasets were compared in sheets in order to see if the number of tracks per Id were identically and to reflect on the fact that the fitness tracker was able to inform about the calorie loss or consumption which could be a huge motivating factor. Together with fact that it corresponds to the range of steps were pivotal.

They are smaller datasets so they are processed in sheets initially. Null values were removed.
